

SUMMER READING

Cultivate a lifelong friendship with literature!

Entering Fifth Grade

Dear Elementary Parent,

This school term has been very successful, and we are so grateful for the accomplishments of each of our students. We thank you for allowing us a year with your child.

It is a proven fact that “readers are leaders!” We want our students to enjoy their break from school – but not from reading! We think reading is important and would like your student to continue reading through the summer. If a student completes the reading and the paperwork, he will have a special reading surprise in the first few weeks of school in the fall. A list of recommended reading is attached.

It is our prayer that your summer is relaxing, refreshing, and replenishing.

Sincerely in Christ,

Jordan Fanara, Administrator (Interim)

Please keep track of summer reading progress and complete the assignments. Teachers will collect the journals in August. Have a great summer!

Bound for Burma

- First, write a one-paragraph summary in a composition notebook for each chapter in Bound for Burma.
- Then, describe at least three ways that God shows His power in this story. Give specific examples from the book (with page numbers).

Escape to Liechtenstein

- First, write a one-paragraph summary in a composition notebook for the book, Escape to Liechtenstein.
- Then, describe one of the main characters in this book. Give specific examples from the book (with page numbers).
- Lastly, describe how you would act, either the same way or differently if you were in the same situations.
